“céad míle fáilte”

(a hundred thousand welcomes)
Traditional Gaelic welcome

ABOUT IRELAND

Ireland is internationally recognised as one of the friendliest and most welcoming nations in the world. Our traditional Gaelic greeting of céad míle fáilte, meaning a hundred thousand welcomes, is a testament to the warm Irish welcome that awaits you.

An island of six million people, Ireland is renowned for its unique fusion of ancient Celtic heritage and modern living. With its breathtaking scenery, ancient monastic settlements and medieval castles, Ireland’s timeless beauty offers a sense of peace and tranquillity seldom found in today’s busy world, while our towns and cities offer all the conveniences of twenty-first century living.

Ireland’s vibrant cultural scene offers a rich variety of music, song, literature and art. With storytelling at the heart of Irish life, it is no accident that Ireland has produced some of the world’s literary greats, including Oscar Wilde, William Butler Yeats, George Bernard Shaw and James Joyce.

ABOUT BRAY

With Dublin city and the enchanting countryside of County Wicklow on its doorstep, the beautiful seaside town of Bray enjoys the best of both worlds. Just 40 minutes by public transport from central Dublin and 35 minutes from the airport, Bray is a bustling town of 32,000 people.

Retaining its Victorian charm, particularly along its delightful promenade, Bray has long been a favourite destination for tourists, writers and cultural figures, counting Oscar Wilde and James Joyce among its 19th century residents. Bray has a thriving film industry, with Ireland's largest film studios located here. Many famous movies and TV dramas have been filmed locally, including Braveheart, P.S. I Love You and The Tudors.

Bray offers an array of hotels, guesthouses, pubs, restaurants and coffee shops and has a vibrant nightlife with a variety of entertainment choices, including nightclubs and traditional and contemporary music venues. Local festivals include the Bray Jazz Festival, Bray Summer Fest and various other local arts events. The annual Bray Air Show is one of the highlights of the summer season. A range of leisure activities are available locally including golf, horse riding, tennis and sailing. Bray has excellent public transport links to Dublin, with a number of buses stopping outside the school and the local DART train (Dublin Area Rapid Transport) just a ten-minute walk from the school.

ABOUT COUNTY WICKLOW

St. Kevin's Monastery, Glendalough, a UNESCO World Heritage site, and Powerscourt Gardens, ranked third most beautiful gardens in the world by National Geographic, are just two of the many attractions County Wicklow has to offer. Known as the 'Garden County', this captivating part of Ireland is unrivalled in its natural beauty, with an abundance of lakes, mountains and long sandy beaches. World-famous for its sporting and leisure facilities, County Wicklow boasts several 18-hole golf courses, numerous horse riding schools and tennis clubs in the local area. County Wicklow also offers excellent opportunities for fishing, sailing, and hiking.

LOCATION

Bray is one of Ireland's oldest and most popular seaside towns. Located in North East Wicklow, just south of Dublin, Bray has excellent public transport links.
